

Red River Ramble

Meet Director Notes

The Red River Ramble is one of our premier NTOA orienteering events. I personally think it has some of the most interesting terrain of all of our meets with the lake, flowing streams, and spectacular terrain with ridges, hills, many cliffs and deep creeks, different vegetation, etc. This year's event should be fun with Wayne Chaffin being our course setter and trying to take us around different areas - while trying to avoid the high water levels in the lake and the creeks/streams. One important note - The fee to go onto Camp All Saints has increased this year to $5.50 per person AND the camp is requiring us to charge those fees for EVERYONE who comes onto the camp whether they orienteer or not. I.e. we will have to charge for everyone who comes into the camp - whether bus driver, parent, coach, or meet worker, etc. I'm going to eat the difference between the camp entry fees and what we budgeted into our competition fees for this season (so we can use our existing NTOA.com registration program as is) - but we are going to have to charge all the non-participants a $5 entry fee (we will eat the 50 cents just to make collecting the fees easier at registration). We will have someone stationed at the entrance to count how many people are in each car and how many are orienteers and how many are non-orienteers. We ask that after you drive in that you then pay for the non-orienteers at the Orienteering registration tent. There is plenty of parking but you may have to search for a space.
